

175972 - He concealed the fact that he had divorced his wife thrice (in writing) in a talaq form, then his wife found out about it. Does the talaq count as such?

the question

I have recently filled a talaq form in and have written down that i give my life 3 talaq. My sisters have told my wife but i havent. Is the talaq confirmed or not?.

Detailed answer

Firstly:

Talaq (divorce)

may be done in writing, and counts as such if it is accompanied by the intervention to issue a talaq. If you do not have the intention of divorce now, and you only wrote it down and are waiting for a suitable time to issue the talaq, then no talaq has taken place.

If you did indeed have the intention of divorce at the time of writing, but you were waiting for a suitable time to inform your wife of that, and not a suitable time for issuing the talaq, then the talaq has taken place.

Secondly:

The threefold

talaq counts as one according to the correct scholarly opinion, whether it was done in writing or verbally. See the answer to question no.
