

6153 - Muslim man marrying a Qadiani (Ahmadi) woman who is of good character

the question

I understand that it is alright for a Muslim male to marry a woman from the people of the book. But how about if a Muslim male wants to marry a Qadiani girl, who's of a good character and personality?

Detailed answer

Given that the Qadiani school of thought is a form of major Kufr (disbelief) which puts them beyond the pale of Islam i.e., Qadianis are not Muslims see Question [4060], it is not permissible to marry this woman, because Allaah says (interpretation of the meaning):

They are not lawful (wives) for the disbelievers nor are the disbelievers lawful (husbands) for them [al-Mumtahinah 60:10]

And Allaah knows best.
